

One Stop Shop - Insurance

COVID-19 has been a major shock to economies the world over. Canada is no different. A major component of that shock has been centered around how businesses react to and manage risk – which means that insurance changes and solutions will loom large now and in the near future. Businesses emerging from the effects of COVID-19 may have far different insurance needs than before the pandemic hit. Your options around insurance products, costs, benefits and providers are an important part of your recovery.
